

Treatment Professionals Who Know LifeRing Recommend LifeRing

Some addiction treatment and mental health professionals are hesitant to refer patients/clients to LifeRing because LifeRing is new to them. This brochure presents three letters of recommendation from well-known treatment centers that have years of experience with LifeRing meetings on their premises.

Kaiser Permanente is the largest HMO in the United States and its Chemical Dependency Treatment Centers are nationally recognized for professionalism and quality of care.

The Dual Diagnosis Unit at Alta Bates Hospital has one of the most challenging clinical missions: to treat patients who are suicidal, homicidal, or unable to care for themselves.

Merritt-Peralta Institute is the oldest addiction treatment facility in the San Francisco Bay Area and is ranked in the Top 100 facilities nationwide.

The consensus of treatment professionals who have observed the effect of LifeRing on their patients/clients is:

- LifeRing is popular. Patients like it.
- There is no friction between LifeRing and 12-Step support groups.
- LifeRing is a positive addition to their program.

No wonder that more and more chemical dependency treatment programs are finding space for LifeRing meetings, and are offering their patients/clients the LifeRing support group option.

Treatment professionals who know LifeRing recommend LifeRing.
